$75 Million Addition To Omnibus Bill Seen

Said Blow At Economy Drive

Speed Up Call Issued

WASHINGTON, April 25—The House is expected to add another 75 million dollars today to the Omnibus Appropriations Bill in one more blow at the faltering Republican economy drive.

Strong bi-partisan support developed for restoration of a 75 million dollar cut made by the House Appropriations Committee in the 150 million dollars requested by the administration for civilian hospital construction.

To date the house has tentatively approved $2,184,883,000 in funds for government agencies and has achieved a net cut of $7,700,000. The economy, bloc, headed by Rep. Taber, N. Y., cut $8,700,000, but the House added $1,000,000 to the bill for the Coast Guard Reserve program. Republicans have been striving for a billion dollar reduction.

Majority Leader McCormack (D) Mass., issued a call for earlier sessions of the House for the next three days in an effort to speed up consideration of the 29 billion dollar measure. The bill contains funds for government operations for the 1951 fiscal year which begins July 1.

THE HOUSE WILL now meet 11 a. m., an hour earlier than scheduled, through Thursday. An attempt might be made to complete action on the measure this week, but there was no assurance this could be done.

Meanwhile, as republican attempts to reduce government costs bogged down, at least temporarily, the ways and means committee continued to reduce existing revenue through additional slashes in excise taxes.

The committee, with Democrats and Republicans acting generally together, has tentatively cut 335 million dollars in excise taxes.

The cuts have been running in excess of President Truman's recommendation for a total reduction of 665 million dollars in taxes. The President contemplated a bill which would recoup some of the revenue losses with new income and bring in an additional one billion dollars.

With the deficit for the 1951 fiscal year expected to total five billion dollars, Rep. Eberhart (D) Pa., an influential committee member, predicted that the total tax cuts might reach one and one-half billion dollars.

MASS ARRESTS NOT PLANNED

Arsonous Outbreak Reported In Canada

NELSON, B. C., April 25 — A fresh outbreak of arsonous property destruction by fanatical Doukhobor nudists, led by young women including a pretty blonde on a white horse, filled the Nelson provincial jail to overflowing today.

Forty more members of the "Sons of Freedom" sect—most of them women who rode and marched unclothed alongside the men—were arrested yesterday at Krestova, 23 miles west of Nelson.

This raised to 79 the number of Russian Doukhobors brought to the Nelson jail since the house-burnings and nudist demonstrations began ten days ago.

At least 13 structures, mostly homes, have been burned to the ground by the naked fanatics in British Columbia's Kootenay agricultural valley since the "Sons of Freedom" started their uprising against what they term "the imminence of World War III."

Yesterday's arrests climaxed a series of raids and burnings by night riders who roamed the valley, nude and astride horses, and by daytime demonstrators who held prayer meetings at which all men and women present removed their clothes, then set off on their forays.

'FEATHERBEDDING' CHARGED

Railroad Walkout Postponed Two Weeks

CHICAGO, April 25—Temporary peace on the nation's railroads was assured today by a two-week postponement of a threatened strike by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Union officials expressed hope that within that time they will reach a settlement with four major lines.

Central point of the dispute is the brotherhood's demand for employment of a second fireman on multiple-unit diesel locomotives.

While the union claims the extra man is needed for safety reasons, the railroads charge the demand is "featherbedding"—an attempt to make work.

The walkout was scheduled for 6 a. m. tomorrow but Union President David B. Robertson and his executive committee agreed to the postponement at the behest of Chairman Francis

Grand Jury Session Slated

The next term of Pickaway County grand jury will convene May 8, Judge William D. Radcliff announced Tuesday.

The jurist predicted that the session would be comparatively short. Only a handful of cases now are docketed for the panel's consideration.

hobor girls, shouting religious slogans as they rode or marched.

Police finally succeeded in stemming the wave of outbreaks at Krestova in the heart of the Doukhobor farming country. But they were prepared to cope with new attempts by additional fanatics to launch fresh demonstrations.

Provincial Police Commissioner Roger Peachy announced: "Although we do not now plan any additional mass arrests, we will carry out such arrests if there are any further violations of the law."

Peachy said the provincial jail at Nelson, 250 miles east of Vancouver, B. C., is so full of the arrested demonstrators that many of the "freedomites" have been lodged in a wooden annex.

The police commissioner said officials are inspecting the former wartime Canadian army camp at Nanaimo, B. C., for possible use as a prison barracks to house the "freedomites" if further arrests have to be made.

Charges of arson and nudism have been lodged against those arrested. Officials said more than half of those jailed are women members of the sect which believes in free love as one of the tenets of faith professed by the radical wing of the Doukhobor religion.

Compromise Bill Seen

Utility Hearings To Resume

WASHINGTON, April 25 — A compromise bill to dam interstate flood of gambling information appears in the making today by a Senate commerce subcommittee.

The group has before it two proposals—one from Attorney General J. Howard McGrath and the other from Chairman Wayne Coy of the Federal Communications Commission.

Chairman McFarland (D) Ariz., said the subcommittee probably will try to resolve the differences after hearing all interested parties. He added:

"The attorney general has already indicated that he will be glad to sit down with the committee to work out the details of a bill."

The McGrath bill would not make the interstate transmission of gambling information which bookmakers need a criminal offense.

It would, instead, require the telephone, telegraph and radio industries to prevent such information from reaching the bookies. The Justice Department version also would provide for a "time lag" so that the information would be delayed too long for bookies to benefit.

But Coy proposes that a criminal statute be drafted forbidding the interstate transmission of bets or wagers, betting odds or prices paid on sporting events.

He explained that it would work in a fashion similar to the present law banning the transmission of news on lotteries, with one major exception. The new provision would bar interstate racing news transmissions only by "communications facilities."

Officer's Return Expected Here

Officer Elmer Merriman of 364 East Mound street is expected to return to duty Monday on the Circleville police force.

Merriman was given a leave of absence from the force Feb. 28 when he submitted to an eye operation in Columbus.

The recent operation was the third treatment of the eye since it was injured five years ago when the officer arrested a woman and attempted to take her to jail.

Merriman probably will be assigned to desk duty when he returns to the force.

Budenz Faces Rigorous Cross Exam

Night Session Is Scheduled

WASHINGTON, April 25—Former Communist Louis Budenz faces a rigorous cross examination today by the Senate subcommittee investigating charges of Soviet invasion of the State Department.

Budenz was summoned to appear before the Senate group to explain his charges against Far Eastern Expert Owen J. Lattimore as President Truman clamped a national security padlock on the FBI files which he has already refused the loyalty investigators.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Tydings (D) Md., will hold an unprecedented night session tonight to hear three new "mystery witnesses" who may give sensational testimony on the Lattimore case.

The witnesses are John J. Huber, former "undercover" FBI man in New York; Larry Kerley, former FBI agent now on the New York Journal-American staff, and Bella V. Dodd, ex-Communist party official.

President Truman told a radio audience last night that release of the FBI files on accused persons "might reveal highly secret information vital to our national security and of great value to foreign nations."

Mr. Truman flatly turned down the latest appeals for access to the FBI evidence in a sizzling denunciation of the charges of Communism hurled by Sen. McCarthy (R) Wis., and other Republicans.

ALTHOUGH THE President did not mention McCarthy by name, the senator immediately announced that he will ask for equal radio time to answer Mr. Truman, McCarthy added:

"His (the President's) apparent complete indifference to the greatest threat faced by this nation is impossible to understand."

Mr. Truman, backing up Secretary of State Acheson, told the Federal Bar Association that his administration has fired every employee known to be a Communist or otherwise disloyal.

President Truman's speech was his sharpest since he accused McCarthy and several GOP colleagues of being "assets to the Kremlin."

150 Attend Band Concert

Nearly 150 persons attended the first concert program of the Circleville Community Band Monday in Memorial Hall.

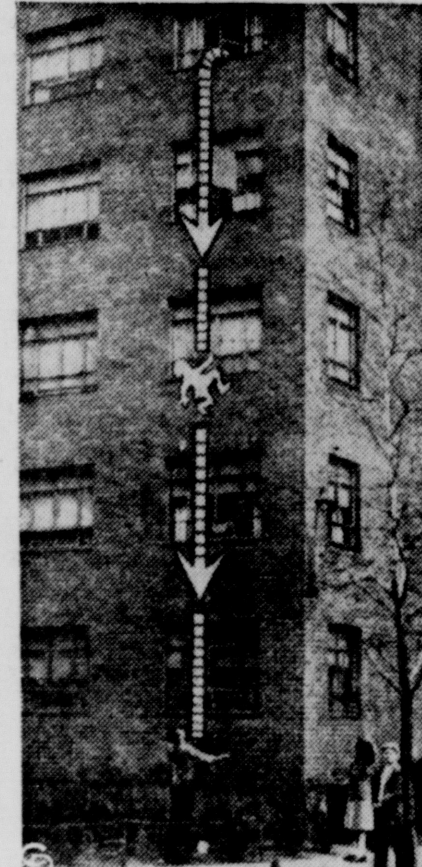

The concert consisted of marches and novelty selections, featured by two overtures. The overtures were "Poet and Peasant" and "Jupiter's Carnival."

Director Alfred Lee turned over his baton to Charles Kirkpatrick during the "Poet and Peasant" to sit in with the organization and play solo cornet. Kirkpatrick is president of the organization.

Lee said that the Monday concert was the only program scheduled for the group to date this Spring, although the organization is expected to rehearse on Monday nights in Ted Lewis Park when warmer weather comes.

"The practices in the park are not concerts," Lee said. "We may stop a half dozen times during a piece while practicing, but if people want to come out and listen to us they're welcome."

Lee said the practice sessions probably will be held in the park shelter house.

Judge Radcliff Concerned Over Lack Of Jury Interest

This week, on the eve of another court term, Judge William D. Radcliff expressed concern over what might be considered a lack of interest in "the second most important duty" facing every American.

The judge, who presides over Pickaway County common pleas court, labeled this duty as service on a jury.

It was pointed out by court attaches that of the 15 grand jurors and 45 petit jurors announced less than a week ago, five already have sought to be excused from duty.

Only two—those presenting doctors' certificates—have been granted excuses, the attaches reported.

The judge declared that "all true patriots welcome the opportunity" of serving on juries. He said that "it is an honor and a privilege to serve one's country both in peace and in war. Next to voting, jury duty is a citizen's greatest duty and responsibility."

Judge Radcliff said that while there are certain exceptions stipulated by law where excuse from jury duty is allowed, some prospective jurors consider such duty as being a "hardship."

"To be correct," the judge said, "they should say 'inconvenience.'"

THE JUDGE, a farm-owner himself, said that this time of year is difficult for farmers. Yet, he said, he knew of "very few instances where even a busy farmer could not schedule his work to allow for service on a jury."

The law prescribes that certain professions—among them lawyers, physicians, the clergy, police officers and school teachers—may be exempt.

'RIOT ACT' READ

Multi-Billion Aid Bill Passage Being Awaited

WASHINGTON, April 25—The Senate may get down to business today on the House-passed three billion 372 million dollar foreign aid bill.

The upper chamber was scolded for "neglect of duty" in failing to act on the measure authorizing expenditure of U. S. dollars to support allies in the cold war.

Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Connally (D) Tex., warned the upper chamber that if it again runs out of members and speakers, he will insist that voting start at once on a stack of amendments.

Connally — to use his own phrase—read "the riot act" to the Senate after three days of consideration of the bill produced but four speeches and absentees mounted to 92 of the 96 senators.

The Texan told the almost empty chamber that the "country should know that senators are neglecting their duty on 'important' legislation."

Off-stage, support mounted for the Millikin-Saltontall amendment to postpone action this year on President Truman's Point Four program for technical aid to underdeveloped countries.

THE AMENDMENT would defer a vote until after a bi-partisan commission studied the project and reported to the 82nd Congress.

Connally charged the amendment was an attempt to kill the technical aid program by delay. But another Democratic leader said there is considerable support on his side of the aisle for the Republican-sponsored amendment. The vote may be close.

Rejection of Point Four at this session would be a slap at the President.

Mr. Truman first urged adoption of Point Four in his inaugural address of Jan. 20, 1949. He repeatedly has stressed his desire for sharing knowledge with underdeveloped areas.

A new issue was injected in the Foreign Aid Bill by surplus farm amendments introduced by Sens. Thomas (D) Okla., and McClellan (D) Ark.

Both would compel foreign aid officials buying farm products, to make their purchases in this country if the commodities were in surplus.

The Thomas amendment would also broaden the definition of surplus to include any product selling below supported prices.

The present foreign aid law gives officials discretion in purchases. It merely states it should be their policy to tap American surpluses when possible.

Connally said the surplus amendments will attract some votes but he predicted their defeat. He said he thought the question of surpluses can safely be left to the discretion of foreign aid officials.

Police Think Baby Found

Hunger For Baby Said Motive

NEW YORK, April 25 — A young chambermaid whose twins died after premature birth confessed today she kidnaped nine-day-old Chaneta Holden on March 10 from an incubator at the Lincoln hospital because she "hungered" for a baby.

Police were positive that a baby girl found alive in the Co-burg hotel, where the chambermaid is employed, is Chaneta, but positive identification still awaited checking of footprints. Doctors had said it would be a miracle if the prematurely-born baby survived for an hour outside her incubator.

The woman, Mrs. Evelyn Jane Jordan, 18, small and chunky, arrested in her second floor room at the hotel, across the hall from a storeroom where the baby was discovered, was charged with kidnapping.

The charge followed hours of questioning at the Alexander avenue police station and re-arrest at the hospital in the presence of high police officials.

Her husband, Walter, 27, who said he married the woman in North Carolina 15 months ago, was booked as an accessory to the kidnapping.

Both were taken to Manhattan police headquarters for the lineup, fingerprinting and arraignment in felony court.

Police blamed the woman's hunger for a baby for the kidnapping. After her twins died last January, she said, she had tried in desperation to adopt an infant before the idea of taking one from the hospital occurred to her.

MRS. JORDAN WAS seized on a tip from a woman who had unwittingly befriended her, not knowing of the kidnapping at the time. This woman phoned police Mrs. Jordan's address after a chance meeting on a Harlem street yesterday.

When she was taken to the Lincoln hospital by detectives and Chief Assistant District Attorney Breslin of the Bronx, the chambermaid enacted the kidnapping scene.

Mrs. Jordan led the law officers to the hospital's second floor, where the incubator ward is located. To reach it she had to go through two doors, each with screens and each latched with hook and eye.

She found she could push a pencil through and lift these hooks, and showed the law officers how it was done.

"No, I'd never been in this hospital before," she told police. "No one was near the room at the time. I just lifted the baby up in my arms."

"I held her to me like this (clutching imaginary child to her bosom) and wrapped my coat around her. Then I got out of there."

The parents of Chaneta, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Holden, were

VFW Authorizes Remodeling

Circleville Veterans of Foreign Wars Club Monday authorized its building committee to seek estimates for remodeling the present building.

The club reportedly has been considering either remodeling the present building or construction of a new post. Officials said the Monday meeting was called only to permit the club to authorize the committee to seek building estimates.

The motion to permit the authorization of the committee reportedly passed by but a single vote.

hurry to the hospital where the infant taken from the Coburg hotel was shown them.

"THAT'S HER!" That's her all right," said Mrs. Holden, sobbing. "She looks like Clifford around the eyes."

"She looks all right," said the father. "I think she's put on weight."

She had. When the 9-day-old prematurely born Chaneta was stolen, she weighed only two pounds, nine ounces. Today she weighed around 11 pounds, the hospital reported.

Police said there was evidence that excellent care had been taken of the child. There was a hot water bottle under Chaneta's head in the baby carriage when she was found at 3:30 a. m. An electric heating pad was on the baby's chest.

They also found formula data and medical books, a baby scale, and wash basins in the Jordans' room.

Two witnesses positively identified Mrs. Jordan as the kidnaper. Police said Mrs. Beatrice Vernon said the chambermaid was the woman in "firehouse red and kelly green" who visited her home with Chaneta shortly after the infant was kidnapped.

Police said that later Elmer Fuller, a cab driver who had driven the kidnapper and the negro infant to Mrs. Vernon's home, also declared he was "sure" the chambermaid had been his passenger.

Sheriff Frees Chilliothe Man In Fire Probe

A 30-year-old escapee from Chilliothe veterans' hospital Monday was freed from investigation in connection with the $50,000 fire which razed the Atlanta Grain Co. elevator Saturday night.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said the man and a companion had established that they were nearly nine miles away from the scene of the fire when the blaze was said to have originated.

The sheriff said the escapee and his friend had been in a filling station near Williamsport at about 8:30 p. m., the time the fire was supposed to have started. He said the station attendant had given the man some tobacco and a tin full of matches which the lawmen had discovered on him when he was searched.

Meanwhile, state fire marshals Monday viewed the ruins of the demolished elevator in Atlanta in an attempt to discover whether the fire had been set. Marshal William Icenhower of Washington C. H. said that his examination of the rubble had failed to turn up evidence which might indicate arson.

"The fire might have been started by accident," Icenhower said. "The building was so completely destroyed that I was unable to find anything which might indicate that the fire had been purposely set."

Meanwhile, Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff said he questioned a man who lived near the elevator.

"This man said he has been inside the building when it was raining and the temperature was extremely high," Radcliff said.

Meanwhile, the 30-year-old escapee and his companion were to have been returned to the Chilliothe hospital Tuesday afternoon by the lawmen.

Boys Chorus Entertains Kiwanians

Eleven youthful voices from Lancaster Boys' Industrial School Monday entertained Circleville Kiwanis Club.

The club, meeting in Pickaway County Club, was holding its "Sons' Night" dinner meeting and had the boys chorus as special guests.

Providing both sacred and secular music, the Lancaster youths were well-received, displayed well-balanced and talented singing voices.

About 45 Kiwanians brought "sons" to the affair. The special night was a departure from standard form. Instead of having annual father-son and father-daughter meetings the club this year has scheduled nights honoring their sons, daughters, fathers and mothers.

The Lancaster chorale group was brought to Circleville by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gibbs, officials of BIS.

Magistrate Fines Fishing Violators

Three fishing law violators were fined a total of $45 and costs Monday in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root.

Clarence Francis, Pickaway County game protector, said he arrested Mr. and Mrs. Russell Weatherly of Washington state for fishing in Yellowbud creek without a non-resident license.

The game man pointed out that the pair had purchased Ohio license, but that by law they were to have purchased non-residence permits. They were fined $15 and costs each.

Also fined $15 and costs was Genevieve Walker of Columbus, who had been fishing in the waters of Big Darby creek near Harrisburg without a permit.

Francis was assisted in the arrests by E. J. Baker, Franklin County game protector.

Drunk Driving Charge Placed

Merle "Pete" Crosby of Watt street Tuesday was held for Pickaway County grand jury action on an accusation of drunken driving.

Crosby asked to be bound over when he appeared before Magistrate Oscar Root to answer the accusation filed by Sheriff Charles Radcliff. Radcliff said he arrested the man late Monday on Walnut Creek pike.

Bond was set at $300 by the magistrate.

been "heard" by jurors who actually were deaf.

THEN, HE SAID, there have been instances of inexperienced and ill-advised juries which returned questionable verdicts because of their lack of experience.

Another reason for "disrepute" among juries is the failure of the average layman to understand the true meaning of "overruled" and "sustained" when used by the judge with reference to attorney requests.

A fourth reason for poor juries is the manner in which some judges give the juries their instructions. By necessity, a judge must couch his charge to the jury in legal terms—and the charge often is over the heads of the jurors. Judge Radcliff said of Pickaway County:

"This court attempts to simplify as best it can and yet stay within the law."

He explained that the phrase "beyond a reasonable doubt," as defined by state statute, is confusing even to some students of law.

Unscrupulous lawyers contribute to disrepute of the jury system, Judge Radcliff declared. He said there are cases on record wherein lawyers assail the

Fat Is Not a Nice Word When Applied to the Body

Don't say it's your thyroid while reaching for the box of chocolates. Possibly one bulgy person in 100 has some glandular disturbance and that is truly a case for a physician. Never take any treatment for a gland condition without your doctor's advice. But for the other 99 per cent who are trying to fight the "Battle of the Bulges" common sense is the watchword. It is not necessary to overeat and it is not necessary to go hungry, either. Furthermore, it just doesn't make sense to go on a strenuous diet—take off weight and then quickly put it back on again when the diet period is over. For it is obvious that one cannot continue a starvation diet over a protracted period. Within the last year or so, several diet and vitamin "plans" have appeared on the market, which means cut down on the food intake and fortify with vitamins for hunger distress. But as mentioned above, you can't keep this up very long and when you quit—back comes the fat.

An exhaustive survey recently made among Ohio druggists showed one outstanding reducing aid is not based on the diet and vitamin "plan." It allows you to eat plenty. You eat all you want but you eat LESS. Sounds like double talk, but it isn't. It definitely stops you from eating more than necessary for the energy you spend. At the same time, it dehydrates and eliminates.

Over a quarter million bottles of this preparation, called Rennel Concentrate have been sold in Ohio in the past 1½ years.

You can get a four-ounce bottle of Rennel from any Ohio druggist. Mix with 12 ounces of canned grapefruit juice and take just two tablespoonsful twice a day.

If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose that ugly fat, the makers agree to refund your money.

OHIO RIVER REGATTA

NEW attention will focus on an interesting old town when the inter-collegiate regatta meets in June at Marietta, Ohio. This will be the first time that this event has been held elsewhere than at Poughkeepsie, New York. Of late years the Poughkeepsie location has become increasingly unsatisfactory. Tides always made trouble, causing difficulty in the definite scheduling of the races. Then during the war the observation train which helped pay some of the regatta's expenses was broken up, and it has not been replaced. At Marietta tides will not be found, and financial problems are not expected, either.

Visitors will see the oldest city in Ohio, founded in 1788 by Gen. Israel Putnam. The Ohio River, with its southwesterly trend, offered an inviting passage through the wilderness forests, so that almost every foot of its course has historic associations. In addition, Marietta offers traces of a still older civilization. In the heart of the city are excellent examples of the mounds long thought to have been the work of a mysterious vanished race, the "Mound Builders." We now know that these early people differed in no important respect from the Indians whom the white man knew, that many Indians built mounds and have done so recently.

Even if sightseers explore no further than the city itself, they will find themselves in a slightly and historic region.

VICTIMS OF DRINK

WHO are the alcoholics? Among the men, travelling salesmen who are married make up the largest group. Dr. Robert E. Fleming, a psychiatrist in the Massachusetts Hygiene Department, said recently. Next come machinists. Married life seems to go with alcoholism. At any rate, 72.7 percent of the men treated and 59 per cent of the women were married, one study of cases showed.

Only a confirmed stay-at-home bachelor would deduce from this that to avert alcoholism a man should stay single and avoid selling on the road. The way to avoid alcoholism is to steer clear of any degree of habit in the consumption of liquor. Who ever heard of an alcoholic who was not first a habitual drinker?

News which will grieve few Americans: The Daily Worker, New York City's Communist newspaper, is $175,000 in debt, and its continued publication is in danger. Party members are asked to send in contributions. Apparently the Commies are no longer able to make their propaganda show a capitalistic profit.

Charcoal flavor on a roast is all right—in reason—but a meat flavor is also welcome.

Election Setback Could Speed Up Labor Unity | Britain, Canada Create Anti-Submarine Vessels

Special to Central Press
WASHINGTON—Results of the upcoming congressional elections, some union officials believe, will affect current efforts to bring about labor unity in the country.

They think that a stiff election setback, a depression or some similar occurrence will mean success in uniting labor forces, but they see little chance that CIO President Phil Murray's proposal for a committee to plan merger of American unions into one big federation will succeed right now.

One well-informed labor union official predicted, however, that there may be unity in five years. He explained: "If labor and its candidates take a licking in this year's congressional election or in the presidential contest of 1952, then you may see labor unity."

"That's why I say it may take five years to obtain unity. It is going to take an election defeat or some other serious setback to force labor to unify its ranks."

The AFL has not yet replied to Murray's unity plan, but will do so next month when its executive council meets in Philadelphia. The AFL is expected to side-step Murray's proposal and come up with a counter-proposition.

There is no real pressure for unity at this time, however, and neither proposal is expected to get anywhere.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Now that it is promised that the "Amerasia" case is to be reopened, there is reason to believe that Senator Tydings will not slough it off. His counsel, Edward P. Morgan, an ex-FBI man, and the Republican counsel, Robert Morris, who had been assistant counsel for the Rapp-Coudert investigation in New York, are reliable men who have reputations of their own to preserve.

Even before Louis Budenz testified, Tydings committee and their counsel were at work on the "Amerasia" case. This is a door that leads to many rooms. Budenz established in his testimony that a communist cell existed in the Institute of Pacific Relations. It will be impossible to investigate "Amerasia" without moving into the Institute of Pacific Relations and numerous other organizations. The testimony of Brigadier-General Elliott Raymond Thorpe did not affect the Budenz testimony. All that Thorpe said was that he believed Latimore. As Thorpe is a new name and hardly known, the question arises whether his testimony has pertinence and validity.

Budenz is a former Communist, formerly editor of their organ, The Daily Worker. He was originally a Roman Catholic and returned to his church after prolonged and important membership in the Communist Party; he is now a professor at Fordham university. From every testable standpoint, Budenz has established his bona fides. At great personal risk, he has testified in a large number of government cases. Without him, many of these cases would have fallen. He has exposed himself to abuse and defamation. He has in no manner protected himself, except against libel—and in that matter, only because he lacks the funds to fight cases.

In this connection, may I point out that the same is true of others, including Senator McCarthy. Yet, when Alfred Kohlberg, who does possess means, challenged those who shout that they will sue for libel, to sue him for saying the same things, nobody sued him. There have been threats, but no suits.

Budenz has earned the gratitude of the American people by the consistency of his sacrifice. This needs to be said of other ex-Communists: Ben Gitlow, Joseph Zack, Hede Massing, Dr. J. B. Matthews (he was a fellow-traveler), Whittaker Chambers and many others who have stood the test of contrition, suffering and sacrifice.

In this connection, may I refer to a wild attack on ex-Communists by the civil libertarian, Arthur Garfield Hays, on the radio show, "Author Meets the Critics." Hays apparently is for civil liberties for everyone except those who are willing to sacrifice themselves for their former sins. Chambers never took advantage of the Statute of Limitations. When he spoke to Marvin McIntyre and Adolf A. Berle Jr. in 1939, he laid himself open to immediate arrest and conviction as a spy. He did not ask for immunity. He made no bargains. No group is more valuable to this country than the ex-Communists who are devoting themselves to their country's good.

The planet Mars will be nearer the earth this year than it has been for ten years, only 44 million miles away. In 1954 it will be still nearer, only 35 million miles distant. It will even then be not quite near enough so that the inhabitants of the two planets can wave to each other as they pass by.

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

"WHAT are you looking for, Jenny?" Natalie stood in the doorway and watched her sister's exasperated search.

"My old brown wool sweater. I can't find it anywhere."

"Won't another one do? That thing was ready for the rag bag, anyhow. Maybe you gave it away."

"No, I didn't. And it wasn't so bad. Ideal for rough work, when you didn't want to think about clothes. Where could I have put it?"

"Why do you need it?" Natalie yawned. The dinner had been good, and the sense of warmth and repose, coming on top of a day's hard work, had made her sleepy.

"It has begun to snow, and Ruth wouldn't be around tomorrow morning because it's his day to do inside cleaning for Mrs. Benson. I thought I'd do some shoveling before it got too heavy."

"Oh, leave it, her sister said. 'Brent will do it when he comes. No, he won't, either. He's going to town tomorrow on business.'"

Jenny was glad her face was turned the other way so that Natalie could not see the little spasm of pain which shot across it. Brent had said nothing to her. Brent said so little to her these days. It was Natalie who was his confidante, Natalie with whom he talked and made little jokes. Gary came to the house less and less now, and Nat and Brent went everywhere together. The thing she had dreaded was drawing closer all the time, and she was powerless to stop it, or even to avoid it when it came.

She put on a heavy dark blue sweater, really too warm for snow shoveling, and went out into the half-light of the windless evening. The world was a monotone of greys around her, with subtle variations to indicate the forms beneath the shrouding snow and a few deep shadows to give it a quality of depth. The exercise was just what she needed. When she did things like this, she did not need to think. Her housework was too familiar, gave her mind too much opportunity for unhappy speculation.

A capped and mittened form came out of Faith's house and began to clear the porch steps.

"Hello!" Max called. "That you, Brent?"

She straightened. "It's me, Jenny!" she called back. They met in silence after that until they met at the juncture of the two lots.

Copyright, 1949, by Kay Hamilton. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

"Isn't this swell?" Max demanded. "The cold, and the purity of the fresh snow, and the tingling of your blood from the work. And then, afterward, going back to a warm, lighted house, and a soft chair, and a long drink." He did not add, "And a loving wife," but he did not need to. Jenny knew how blessed they were in their marriage.

"Those fellows who used to be snowbound on their farms in winter," Max added. "You know, they had something. Knowing they had shelves and shelves of their own canned vegetables, and sides of bacon, and dried beans, and a shed full of wood. Think how snug they must have felt. How cozy!"

Jenny smiled. "But there was always the stock to feed, and the pump to thaw out," she reminded him.

He laughed outright. "Jenny, Jenny, you're too practical! Where's your romantic streak?"

They separated then, and Jenny went to work on the slip between their front walk and the other end of the lot. But she was tired now. The shovel seemed twice as heavy as before, and the snow clung to it stubbornly. She was depressed, too. Was that her trouble? Was that why Brent had turned to Natalie? Was she too practical? Or, at least, was that the way she impressed people? She knew in her heart that she was perhaps the greatest romantic of them all, but because she was neither beautiful nor artistic, because her truest expression was in household service for those she loved, was she to be branded as "practical"?

Her mind leaped to storybook solutions. She would buy some new clothes, and try out a new lipstick; she would suddenly become the darling of all the unattached males in the neighborhood, and Brent would see her for the Cinderella she was—a princess in disguise. Or she would suddenly learn of any party, play her simple songs at some famous night club, and become the pet of society. Then Brent would realize what he had missed all these years, and come to her humbly asking the favor of an occasional word.

The foolish speculation amused her, lifted her dark mood somewhat. "No," Jenny said to herself, "I know what I am, and I know that I could not change."

But she knew that she would have to change in some way, and soon. Her observant eyes told her that Brent and Natalie were on the verge of love. Nat had an air of being half-subdued, half-vibrant, as if she trembled before a step which would change her whole life. And Brent was moody so often; then suddenly boisterously gay. Not the stable, serious Brent she had known for so long. Surely it was love which had wrought this change in him.

But beyond this point her mind stubbornly refused to go. What would happen if Natalie and Brent would become engaged was something she simply could not visualize. A shudder of unreasoning fear always came down on her mind at that point.

She made herself a little pot of chocolate when she went in, and carried her cup with some toasted saltines to the dining fire in the living room. Natalie had long since succumbed to the lure of her bed. Jenny sipped the hot drink and let the comforting warmth spread through her being. When there was a tap on the window, she was startled but not afraid.

It was Jack Tyson. "May I come in?" he asked her. "I was driving by and saw your light still on, and I was tempted—No, why shouldn't I tell the truth to you?" he interrupted himself angrily. "I've been wanting to see you all day, but I only got my courage up a few minutes ago."

Jenny said, "Would you like some hot chocolate? I've just made it." He laughed, a little wildly, she thought.

"Thanks," he gasped, when the paroxysm had died down. "Thanks, I would. Hot chocolate!" she heard him murmuring to himself as she left the room.

He sipped it appreciatively. "Funny how many things we lose as we grow older and more sophisticated," he said, when he put down his cup. "I haven't thought of anything mild for a cold night in I don't know how many years. But hot chocolate does the trick." He straightened a little, and the freight flickered on his face. Jenny saw that he looked more worn than usual, more disillusioned, and wondered what had happened to him.

He stretched his long legs toward the fire. "I want to tell you the story of my life," he said abruptly. "I hope it won't shock you. I hope it won't bore you. But I feel you ought to know my background before I go on to what I came here for."

Try, Stop Me

Two tramps beseeched an Indiana farmer for a hand-out. "Fill that shed with kindling wood," proposed the farmer, "and you'll get the best meal you've ever in weeks." The tramps were hungry—and there wasn't another house in sight, so they reluctantly accepted the farmer's offer. Fifteen minutes later he went out to the shed to see how they were progressing. He found one tramp leaning on the axe-handle, watching with deep interest while the other tramp executed a series of amazing ballet steps, flip-flops and somersaults.

"Cricket," said the farmer to the tramp on the side lines. "I didn't know your friend was an acrobat."

"Neither did I," admitted the tramp. "I cracked him on the shin with this axe."

A lady borrowed one of those highly-spiced historical novels from the Morrisania branch of the New York Public Library, and before returning it, she wrote a brief critical note on the fly-leaf. It read, "In case of fire be sure to throw this in."

People in the United States use an average of two and one-half billion pounds of soap every year.

work and to the building of speedy anti-submarine vessels. For the time being, these vessels undoubtedly will be converted from other forms of naval units, such as destroyers and old-type sub chasers. However, these are best stopgap measures. A British naval authority recently conceded that "the answer to the 20-knot submarine has not yet been produced."

At the same time, however, he noted that the United States, Canada and Great Britain are working on the problem and pointed to one aspect of the fast sub that works in behalf of the defenders.

That is the fact that although the newest subs can travel 20 knots underwater, this speed can be maintained for only a relatively short time, so that if the anti-sub vessels are able to keep contact, they will then be in a position to make their attack on the sub.

● UNEMPLOYMENT—The nation's unemployment problem has improved considerably, but government economists are keeping their fingers crossed. It looks as if the half-million drop in jobless rolls may be only temporary. Colleges and high schools will turn loose thousands of job hunters in June and unemployment may go up.

The Census Bureau estimated unemployment in March at 4,125,000—about 561,000 below the eight-year high reached in February. Economists attributed the drop to the usual spring business pickup which should continue up to June.

After that, it's anybody's guess what happens. Besides the influx of new job-seekers, there is summer slackening of business.

● AIR FORCE'S SELLING JOB—The Air Force has its troubles though. It hopes to sell Congress and the country on more money with Operation Swarmer, conducted this month in the Carolinas. In the exercise, to be viewed by congressmen and the press, the Air Force will attempt to launch an attack, establish an "airhead" and supply parachute troops through to the finish of the operation entirely from the sky.

The Air Force will fly the troops to the drop, along with supplies and light armament. Then it will drop heavier guns and continuing supplies as the airhead troops attempt to penetrate "enemy" lines and capture a base 40 miles away.

Top flying generals feel that if they can prove that air power can do all these things Congress will be in a better mood to hand out more money for modern airplanes.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

A House sub-committee spent 10 days in Hawaii, but only to investigate the Communist movement or so the members will tell their wives.

The committee heard testimony of 69 witnesses none of whom produced top secrets hidden in a pineapple.

Attorney General McGrath has a splendid suggestion for people who have information about Communists. . . send it to Washington and it will go into those secret files you've been hearing about.

Put information in the hands of amateurs like senators and congressmen and first thing you know people are getting indicted and convicted and sent to prison. Then you have others scrambling to back away from the Red fronts. . . a generally unpleasant situation and unavoidable.

There is no need to go around upsetting everybody when it's so easy to file and forget.

That's what we need in this country—a "National Put It In The Files Month" or "Don't be a dupe. . . be a dope".

"Sweetose"® Helps Make Meals Delicious at a Saving

She's discovered that the best buy in waffle syrup is best by far! Thrifty maple flavored "Sweetose" Waffle Syrup is made under a basic patent, especially to make pancakes and waffles taste extra wonderful! Balanced sweetness complements the toasty-baked flavor of waffles and pancakes (never hides it by over-sweetening). Waffles stay crisp because this fast-flowing, easy-spreading syrup doesn't "soak in." More digestible—richer in quick-energy dextrose. Try "Sweetose" tomorrow!

Ribbons will be awarded individual winners of first, second and third places. Clubs receiving the most points will be given cash awards. Exhibits will be graded on a 5-3-1 basis.

Mrs. Ray Smith of Chillicothe will serve as judge.

On the flower show committee planning the affair are William Cook, Mrs. Donald H. Watt, Mrs. Ella Hornbeck, Miss Matie Crum, Mrs. Charles Pugsley, Mrs. Boyd Stout, Mrs. Bryce Briggs, Mrs. Fred Duncan, Mrs. Fred Cook, and Waldo Stedman.

Class 1 will be an arrangement in a "natural container," using twigs, moss or any such material.

Class 2 is entitled "Spring Snow" and will be an all white arrangement.

Class 3, "Wind and Rain" includes tree branches and shrubbery in the material used.

Class 4, "Spring Sunshine" will be an arrangement of yellow flowers featuring narcissi.

Class 5, "small arrangement" must not exceed eight inches. Labeled specimens will be for display only.

Backgrounds are permissible and must be provided by exhibitor.

Scarborough Blanks Red Sox, Allows 3 Hits

NEW YORK, April 25—There is little wonder why Joe McCarthy would like to wash Washington's man Rae Scarborough right out of his hair.

The NATS' ace right-hander, who has been worse than the seven year itch to the Boston Red Sox the last few seasons, turned up again last night to rub it in.

He blanked the Bostonians, 3 to 0, and allowed them three hits while doing so.

Both the Red Sox and the Yankees have been waving all sorts of deals in front of Clark Griffith for the 31-year-old hurler. Boston, in particular, figures that the best way to beat Scarborough is to have him join its team.

Last night Scarborough and Al Papai, the ex-Brownie, hooked up in a pitchers' duel for seven and a half innings. In the eighth, Scarborough opened with a walk and moved to second when Gil Coan beat out a bunt.

The only other two games on the day's card that escaped the weatherman's wrath were in the National League and both were under the lights.

BROOKLYN'S Don Newcombe won his first game of the year as the Dodgers edged the Boston Braves, 6 to 4.

A wild throw to third base by Boston's 20-year-old catcher Del Crandall let in the two winning runs in the seventh inning. Roy Campanella's second homer of the season, coming with one on in the sixth, had tied the game at 4-4.

Bob Elliott drove in three runs in the third for Boston with a bases-loaded triple. Rookie Dick Donovan, making his first major league start, was charged with the defeat.

Max Lanier of the St. Louis Cardinals pitched and batted his way to a thrilling 1 to 0 victory over Ken Raffensberger and the Cincinnati Reds. It broke a four game St. Louis losing streak and extended Cincinnati's to five straight.

In the National League, a day game between the Giants and the Phillies was postponed because of rain. The Cubs and Pirates were not scheduled.

In the American League the Yankee-Athletic, White Sox-Indian day games were postponed as was the Tiger-Brownie night encounter.

The Giants and the Reds have yet to win a game and the Chicago Cubs are the only undefeated team in both leagues.

Pittsburgh has the most impressive National League record with five wins and one defeat and the Tigers got the fast start in the American with four wins and one loss.

Jackson Wildcats Score Victory Over Saltcreek

Jackson Wildcats baseball team scored a 5-2 victory Monday over host Saltcreek Warriors hardballers.

The Jackson-Saltcreek duel was the only game played in Monday's first full round of scheduled games in the Pickaway County tournament. The other three tourney games were postponed because of wet grounds.

The Cats opened scoring in the first inning of play in its contest by nothing up a single tally, following through in the second frame with two runs to sport a 3-0 advantage.

Saltcreek threatened the Cats in the third frame of the tourney tilt by scoring a single to whittle down the lead to 3-1, although Jackson roared back in the fourth with a brace of runs to clinch the match. Saltcreek marked another run in the fifth stanza of the encounter to end scoring at the 5-2 margin.

Pitcher Hugh Monroe of Jackson was credited with the win, while Donald Crabtree of Saltcreek was charged with the loss. Jackson's Ray Hulse swung the heavy bat for the Cats during the encounter, hitting four-for-four, including a double and a triple.

One of the outstanding features of the soggy Monday game was that neither team was charged with an error.

The Monday win places Jackson in the semi-finals of the county tournament, matched against the winner of the Ashville-Darby contest.

Ashville and Darby were scheduled to have played their opening contests in the county league Monday in Circleville, although the game was postponed because of wet grounds. The game is to be made up as soon as possible so that the tournament may be completed before the district tournament May 6.

Also to be completed are the games between New Holland and Scioto and Walnut and Monroe, both of which also were called off Monday.

Jackson's Monday win was its second to date in the county tourney. The Cats won their right to enter the first full round of play last Friday by handing Pickaway Pirates a 7-3 setback.

Mayor Miller Says Dad Should Help In Clean Up Week

Cleaning Not All Mom's Job

Tips Are Given For Home Safety

Circleville Mayor Thurman I. Miller Tuesday braved the wrath of his fellow men.

Chairman of the Pickaway County Fire Safety Committee, Hizzoner reminded all citizens that the first week of May (that's next week) will be Clean Up Week in Circleville.

But, he declared:

"Spring cleaning has traditionally been Mother's department, but there are a lot of jobs that should fall Dad's way during the annual Spring cleanup.

"From the man's point of view, Spring Clean-Up is a good time to get rid of many fire hazards around the house. It's an opportunity for the man of the house to check up on the heating equipment, the chimney, roofing, electric wiring and general repairs. There are some 400,000 fires in American homes every year and most of them can be prevented. Nine out of ten fires are caused by carelessness or neglect."

Here's what Mayor Miller says Mr. Householder can do to help rid his home of fire hazards:

Clear out the combustible rubbish in the basement, closets, attic and garage. Throw out paint and oil soaked rags. If rags are used for further work, keep them in closed metal containers.

CLEAN AND CHECK all heaters for repairs. Have the furnace cleaned. Inspect smoke pipes for cracks or rust spots. Have repairs made. Make all necessary repairs to the house. If you need a new roof job, be sure to get a fire resistant roofing listed by the Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.

This might be the time to install a heavy flush-type door at the head of the cellar stairs. Many fires start in cellars; kept closed the door may prevent the spread of fire long enough to save lives. Look over electric cords to see if any have frayed. If electric appliances need repairs, take them to a qualified electrician. When replacing a fuse, see that you use only those of 15 amperes, no higher for the ordinary household circuit. See too, that they bear the Underwriters' Laboratories label.

Don't keep any gasoline, benzine or naphtha in the house. If the little woman insists on dry cleaning some things at the house, see that only safe cleaning fluids are used.

If you have portable kerosene heaters, fill them outdoors and store the necessary kerosene outdoors. Keep heaters clean.

Start some good habits during Cleanup Week, like these:

Always put hot ashes into metal containers.

In burning rubbish, always use an incinerator. Never burn large amounts of rubbish at one time.

Make it a household rule that no one is to smoke in bed. One out of every three fires are caused by matches or careless smoking. See that matches are kept out of reach of young children.

Air Academy Here Definitely Out, Brehm Says

Pickaway County now "does not stand a Chinaman's chance" of being selected as a site for the proposed multi-million dollar U. S. Airforce academy.

This statement was made in a letter received Monday by John R. Heiskell, president of Circleville Kiwanis Club, from Dr. Walter E. Brehm, congressman for this district.

Heiskell, writing to the congressman to secure information and not taking a specific stand on the issue himself, was advised by Brehm that "I am not a prophet nor the son of a prophet, and I do not want to stake my reputation on prophecy. However, here goes:

"Pickaway County originally stood as good an opportunity of securing the proposed academy as any other proposed site. I could cite several reasons for making this statement.

"I now feel that it does not have a Chinaman's chance of being selected. . . .

"Most communities are putting up a terrific fight for establishment of this academy within their particular areas. It seems to me that it only stands to reason to assume that no department of government is going to try and force something on a community which is not unanimously in favor, especially when dozens of other communities are united in favor of the project."

$75 Million Addition To Omnibus Bill Seen

Said Blow At Economy Drive

Speed Up Call Issued

WASHINGTON, April 25—The House is expected to add another 75 million dollars today to the Omnibus Appropriations Bill in one more blow at the faltering Republican economy drive.

Strong bi-partisan support developed for restoration of a 75 million dollar cut made by the House Appropriations Committee in the 150 million dollars requested by the administration for civilian hospital construction.

To date the house has tentatively approved $2,184,883,000 in funds for government agencies and has achieved a net cut of $7,700,000. The economy, bloc, headed by Rep. Taber, N. Y., cut $8,700,000, but the House added $1,000,000 to the bill for the Coast Guard Reserve program. Republicans have been striving for a billion dollar reduction.

Majority Leader McCormack (D) Mass., issued a call for earlier sessions of the House for the next three days in an effort to speed up consideration of the 29 billion dollar measure. The bill contains funds for government operations for the 1951 fiscal year which begins July 1.

THE HOUSE WILL now meet 11 a. m., an hour earlier than scheduled, through Thursday. An attempt might be made to complete action on the measure this week, but there was no assurance this could be done.

Meanwhile, as republican attempts to reduce government costs bogged down, at least temporarily, the ways and means committee continued to reduce existing revenue through additional slashes in excise taxes.

The committee, with Democrats and Republicans acting generally together, has tentatively cut 335 million dollars in excise taxes.

The cuts have been running in excess of President Truman's recommendation for a total reduction of 665 million dollars in taxes. The President contemplated a bill which would recoup some of the revenue losses with new income and bring in an additional one billion dollars.

With the deficit for the 1951 fiscal year expected to total five to seven billion dollars, Rep. Eberhart (D) Pa., an influential committee member, predicted that the total tax cuts might reach one and one-half billion dollars.

MASS ARRESTS NOT PLANNED

Arsonous Outbreak Reported In Canada

NELSON, B. C., April 25 — A fresh outbreak of arsonous property destruction by fanatical Doukhobor nudists, led by young women including a pretty blonde on a white horse, filled the Nelson provincial jail to overflowing today.

Forty more members of the "Sons of Freedom" sect—most of them women who rode and marched unclothed alongside the men—were arrested yesterday at Krestova, 23 miles west of Nelson.

This raised to 79 the number of Russian Doukhobors brought to the Nelson jail since the house-burnings and nudist demonstrations began ten days ago.

At least 13 structures, mostly homes, have been burned to the ground by the naked fanatics in British Columbia's Kootenay agricultural valley since the "Sons of Freedom" started their uprising against what they term "the imminence of World War III."

Yesterday's arrests climaxed a series of raids and burnings by night riders who roamed the valley, nude and astride horses, and by daytime demonstrators who held prayer meetings at which all men and women present removed their clothes, then set off on their forays.

IN THE VAN of the raiders were unclothed teen-age Doukhobor girls, shouting religious slogans as they rode or marched.

'FEATHERBEDDING' CHARGED

Railroad Walkout Postponed Two Weeks

CHICAGO, April 25—Temporary peace on the nation's railroads was assured today by a two-week postponement of a threatened strike by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Union officials expressed hope that within that time they will reach a settlement with four major lines.

Central point of the dispute is the brotherhood's demand for employment of a second fireman on multiple-unit diesel locomotives.

While the union claims the extra man is needed for safety reasons, the railroads charge the demand is "featherbedding"—an attempt to make work.

The walkout was scheduled for 6 a. m. tomorrow but Union President David B. Robertson and his executive committee agreed to the postponement at the behest of Chairman Francis

Compromise Bill Seen

Utility Hearings To Resume

WASHINGTON, April 25 — A compromise bill to dam interstate flood of gambling information appears in the making today by a Senate commerce subcommittee.

The group has before it two proposals—one from Attorney General J. Howard McGrath and the other from Chairman Wayne Coy of the Federal Communications Commission.

Chairman McFarland (D) Ariz., said the subcommittee probably will try to resolve the differences after hearing all interested parties. He added:

"The attorney general has already indicated that he will be glad to sit down with the committee to work out the details of a bill."

The McGrath bill would not make the interstate transmission of gambling information which bookmakers need a criminal offense.

It would, instead, require the telephone, telegraph and radio industries to prevent such information from reaching the bookies. The Justice Department version also would provide for a "time lag" so that the information would be delayed too long for bookies to benefit.

But Coy proposes that a criminal statute be drafted forbidding the interstate transmission of bets or wagers, betting odds or prices paid on sporting events.

He explained that it would work in a fashion similar to the present law banning the transmission of news on lotteries, with one major exception. The new provision would bar interstate racing news transmissions only by "communications facilities."

Officer's Return Expected Here

Officer Elmer Merriman of 364 East Mound street is expected to return to duty Monday on the Circleville police force.

Merriman was given a leave of absence from the force Feb. 28 when he submitted to an eye operation in Columbus.

The recent operation was the third treatment of the eye since it was injured five years ago when the officer arrested a woman and attempted to take her to jail.

Merriman probably will be assigned to desk duty when he returns to the force.

YOUNG CHAMBERMAID ADMITS KIDNAPPING WEEK-OLD GIRL

Budenz Faces Rigorous Cross Exam

Night Session Is Scheduled

WASHINGTON, April 25—Former Communist Louis Budenz faces a rigorous cross examination today by the Senate subcommittee investigating charges of Soviet invasion of the State Department.

Budenz was summoned to appear before the Senate group to explain his charges against Far Eastern Expert Owen J. Lattimore as President Truman clamped a national security padlock on the FBI files which he has already refused the loyalty investigators.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Tydings (D) Md., will hold an unprecedented night session tonight to hear three new "mystery witnesses" who may give sensational testimony on the Lattimore case.

The witnesses are John J. Huber, former "undercover" FBI man in New York; Larry Kerley, former FBI agent now on the New York Journal-American staff; and Bella V. Dodd, ex-Communist party official.

President Truman told a radio audience last night that release of the FBI files on accused persons "might reveal highly secret information vital to our national security and of great value to foreign nations."

Mr. Truman flatly turned down the latest appeals for access to the FBI evidence in a scolding denunciation of the charges of Communism hurled by Sen. McCarthy (R) Wis., and other Republicans.

ALTHOUGH THE President did not mention McCarthy by name, the senator immediately announced that he will ask for equal radio time to answer Mr. Truman. McCarthy added:

"His (the President's) apparent complete indifference to the greatest threat faced by this nation is impossible to understand."

Mr. Truman, backing up Secretary of State Acheson, told the Federal Bar Association that his administration has fired every employee known to be a Communist or otherwise disloyal.

President Truman's speech was his sharpest since he accused McCarthy and several GOP colleagues of being "assets to the Kremlin."

150 Attend Band Concert

Nearly 150 persons attended the first concert program of the Circleville Community Band Monday in Memorial Hall.

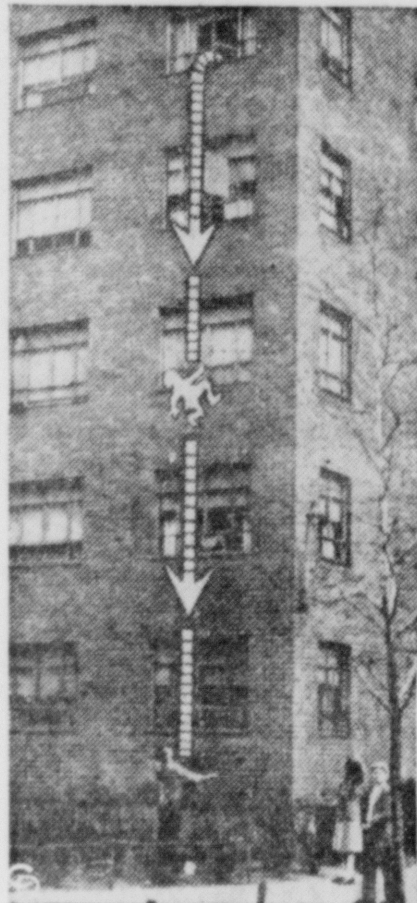

The concert consisted of marches and novelty selections, featured by two overtures. The overtures were "Poet and Peasant" and "Jupiter's Carnival."

Director Alfred Lee turned over his baton to Charles Kirkpatrick during the "Poet and Peasant" to sit in with the organization and play solo cornet. Kirkpatrick is president of the organization.

Lee said that the Monday concert was the only program scheduled for the group to date this Spring, although the organization is expected to rehearse on Monday nights in Ted Lewis Park when warmer weather comes.

"The practices in the park are not concerts," Lee said. "We may stop a half dozen times during a piece while practicing, but if people want to come out and listen to us they're welcome."

Lee said the practice sessions probably will be held in the park shelter house.

RE-ENACTING THE SCENE, Alfred Foschino, 27, shows how he saved Judith Meyer, 2, when the baby toppled off the windowsill of her home in New York and fell five stories (broken arrow) into his arms. Foschino's own two children were taken from him because his pension couldn't support them and pay his wife's numerous medical bills.

Judge Radcliff Concerned Over Lack Of Jury Interest

This week, on the eve of another court term, Judge William D. Radcliff expressed concern over what might be considered a lack of interest in "the second most important duty" facing every American.

The judge, who presides over Pickaway County common pleas court, labeled this duty as service on a jury.

It was pointed out by court attaches that of the 15 grand jurors and 45 petit jurors announced less than a week ago, five already have sought to be excused from duty.

Only two—those presenting doctors' certificates—have been granted excuses, the attaches reported.

The judge declared that "all true patriots welcome the opportunity" of serving on juries. He said that "it is an honor and a privilege to serve one's country both in peace and in war. Next to voting, jury duty is a citizen's greatest duty and responsibility."

Judge Radcliff said that while there are certain exceptions stipulated by law where excuse from jury duty is allowed, some prospective jurors consider such duty as being a "hardship."

"To be correct," the judge said, "they should say 'inconvenience.'"

THE JUDGE, a farm-owner himself, said that this time of year is difficult for farmers. Yet, he said, he knew of "very few instances where even a busy farmer could not schedule his work to allow for service on a jury."

The law prescribes that certain professions—among them lawyers, physicians, the clergy, police officers and school teachers—may be exempt.

The jurist frowned when he recalled that the last Ohio General Assembly increased the mileage allowance for jurors—and increased the length of the list of categories subject to consideration for exemption.

Many employers, the jurist said, refuse to cooperate with the government when one of their employees is called for jury duty. The employee must serve at the small fee paid by the government and lose his regular pay.

Schools long have been a major offender in this matter, although some schools in Pick-away County now are making changes in attitude. The judge opined:

"School teachers should make the best jurors available. They are well-educated and are keen and intelligent. And they can pass on their knowledge of civic affairs to their pupils—the citizens and jurors of tomorrow."

Judge Radcliff, however, said that "there is a possibility that the present jury system is in disrepute."

He pointed out that some trials have been known to have

'RIOT ACT' READ

Multi-Billion Aid Bill Passage Being Awaited

WASHINGTON, April 25—The Senate may get down to business today on the House-passed three billion 372 million dollar foreign aid bill.

The upper chamber was scolded for "neglect of duty" in failing to act on the measure authorizing expenditure of U. S. dollars to support allies in the cold war.

Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Connally (D) Tex., warned the upper chamber that if it again runs out of members and speakers, he will insist that voting start at once on a stack of amendments.

Connally — to use his own phrase—read "the riot act" to the Senate after three days of consideration of the bill produced but four speeches and absentees mounted to 92 of the 96 senators.

The Texan told the almost empty chamber that the "country should know that senators are neglecting their duty on 'important' legislation."

Off-stage, support mounted for the Millikin-Saltonstall amendment to postpone action this year on President Truman's Point Four program for technical aid to underdeveloped countries.

THE AMENDMENT would defer a vote until after a bi-partisan commission studied the project and reported to the 82nd Congress.

Connally charged the amendment was an attempt to kill the technical aid program by delay. But another Democratic leader said there is considerable support on his side of the aisle for the Republican-sponsored amendment. The vote may be close.

Rejection of Point Four at this session would be a slap at the President.

Mr. Truman first urged adoption of Point Four in his inaugural address of Jan. 20, 1949. He repeatedly has stressed his desire for sharing know-how with underdeveloped areas.

A new issue was injected in the Foreign Aid Bill by surplus farm amendments introduced by Sens. Thomas (D) Okla., and McClellan (D) Ark.

Both would compel foreign aid officials buying farm products, to make their purchases in this country if the commodities were in surplus.

The Thomas amendment would also broaden the definition of surplus to include a new product selling below supported prices.

The present foreign aid law gives officials discretion in purchases. It merely states it should be their policy to tap American surpluses when possible.

Connally said the surplus amendments will attract some votes but he predicted their defeat. He said he thought the question of surpluses can safely be left to the discretion of foreign aid officials.

Police Think Baby Found

Hunger For Baby Said Motive

NEW YORK, April 25 — A young chambermaid whose twins died after premature birth confessed today she kidnaped nine-day-old Chaneta Holden on March 10 from an incubator at the Lincoln hospital because she "hungred" for a baby.

Police were positive that a baby girl found alive in the Coburg hotel, where the chambermaid is employed, is Chaneta, but positive identification still awaited checking of footprints. Doctors had said it would be a miracle if the prematurely-born baby survived for an hour outside her incubator.

The woman, Mrs. Evelyn Jane Jordan, 18, small and chunky, arrested in her second floor room at the hotel, across the hall from a storeroom where the baby was discovered, was charged with kidnapping.

The charge followed hours of questioning at the Alexander avenue police station and re-enactment of the kidnapping at the hospital in the presence of high police officials.

Her husband, Walter, 27, who said he married the woman in North Carolina 15 months ago, was booked as an accessory to the kidnapping.

Both were taken to Manhattan police headquarters for the lineup, fingerprinting and arraignment in felony court.

Police blamed the woman's hunger for a baby for the kidnapping. After her twins died last January, she said, she had tried in desperation to adopt an infant before the idea of taking one from the hospital occurred to her.

MRS. JORDAN WAS seized on a tip from a woman who had unwittingly befriended her, not knowing of the kidnapping at the time. This woman phoned police Mrs. Jordan's address after a chance meeting on a Harlem street yesterday.

When she was taken to the Lincoln hospital by detectives and Chief Assistant District Attorney Breslin of the Bronx, the chambermaid enacted the kidnapping scene.

Mrs. Jordan led the law officers to the hospital's second floor, where the incubator ward is located. To reach it she had to go through two doors, each with screens and each latched with hook and eye.

She found she could push a pencil through and lift these hooks, and showed the law officers how it was done.

"No, I'd never been in this hospital before," she told police. "No one was near the room at the time. I just lifted the baby up in my arms."

"I held her to me like this (clutching imaginary child to her bosom) and wrapped my coat around her. Then I got out of there."

The parents of Chaneta, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Holden, were

VFW Authorizes Remodeling

Circleville Veterans of Foreign Wars Club Monday authorized its building committee to seek estimates for remodeling the present building.

The club reportedly has been considering either remodeling the present building or construction of a new post. Officials said the Monday meeting was called only to permit the club to authorize the committee to seek building estimates.

The motion to permit the authorization of the committee reportedly passed by but a single vote.

hurried to the hospital where the infant taken from the Coburg hotel was shown them.

"THAT'S HER! That's her all right," said Mrs. Holden, sobbing. "She looks like Clifford around the eyes."

"She looks all right," said the father. "I think she's put on weight."

She had. When the 9-day-old prematurely born Chaneta was stolen, she weighed only two pounds, nine ounces. Today she weighed around 11 pounds, the hospital reported.

Police said there was evidence that excellent care had been taken of the child. There was a hot water bottle under Chaneta's head in the baby carriage when she was found at 3:30 a. m. An electric heating pad was on the baby's chest.

They also found formula data and medical books, a baby scale, and wash basins in the Jordans' room.

Two witnesses positively identified Mrs. Jordan as the kidnaper. Police said Mrs. Beatrice Vernon said the chambermaid was the woman in "firehouse red and Kelly green" who visited her home with Chaneta shortly after the infant was kidnapped.

Police said that later Elmer Fuller, a cab driver who had driven the kidnapper and the negro infant to Mrs. Vernon's home, also declared he was "sure" the chambermaid had been his passenger.

Sheriff Frees Chillicothe Man In Fire Probe

A 30-year-old escapee from Chillicothe veterans' hospital Monday was freed from investigation in connection with the $50,000 fire which razed the Atlanta Grain Co. elevator Saturday night.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said the man and a companion had established that they were nearly nine miles away from the scene of the fire when the blaze was said to have originated.

The sheriff said the escapee and his friend had been in a filling station near Williamsport at about 8:30 p. m., the time the fire was supposed to have started. He said the station attendant had given the man some tobacco and a tin full of matches which the lawmen had discovered on him when he was searched.

Meanwhile, state fire marshals Monday viewed the ruins of the demolished elevator in Atlanta in an attempt to discover whether the fire had been set.

Marshal William Icenbower of Washington C. H. said that his examination of the rubble had failed to turn up evidence which might indicate arson.

"The fire might have been started by accident," Icenbower said. "The building was so completely destroyed that I was unable to find anything which might indicate that the fire had been purposely set."

Meanwhile, Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff said he questioned a man who lived near the elevator.

"This man said he has been inside the building when it was raining and the temperature was extremely high," Radcliff said.

Meanwhile, the 30-year-old escapee and his companion were to have been returned to the Chillicothe hospital Tuesday afternoon by the lawmen.

Boys Chorus Entertains Kiwanians

Eleven youthful voices from Lancaster Boys' Industrial School Monday entertained Circleville Kiwanis Club.

The club, meeting in Pickaway Country Club, was holding its "Sons' Night" dinner meeting and had the boys chorus as special guests.

Providing both sacred and secular music, the Lancaster youths were well-received, displayed well-balanced and talented singing voices.

About 45 Kiwanians brought "sons" to the affair. The special night was a departure from standard form. Instead of having annual father-son and father-daughter meetings the club this year has scheduled nights honoring their sons, daughters, fathers and mothers.

The Lancaster choral group was brought to Circleville by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gibbs, officials of BIS.

Magistrate Fines Fishing Violators

Three fishing law violators were fined a total of $45 and costs Monday in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root.

Clarence Francis, Pickaway County game protector, said he arrested Mr. and Mrs. Russell Weatherly of Washington state for fishing in Yellowbud creek without a non-resident license.

The game man pointed out that the pair had purchased Ohio license, but that by law they were to have purchased non-residence permits. They were fined $15 and costs each.

Also fined $15 and costs was Genevieve Walker of Columbus, who had been fishing in the waters of Big Darby creek near Harrisburg without a permit.

Francis was assisted in the arrests by E. J. Baker, Franklin County game protector.

Drunk Driving Charge Placed

Merle "Pete" Crosby of Watt street Tuesday was held for Pickaway County grand jury action on an accusation of drunken driving.

Crosby asked to be bound over when he appeared before Magistrate Oscar Root to answer the accusation filed by Sheriff Charles Radcliff. Radcliff said he arrested the man late Monday on Walnut Creek pike.

Bond was set at $300 by the magistrate.

Judge Talks Jury Duty

been "heard" by jurors who actually were deaf.

THEN, HE SAID, there have been instances of inexperienced and ill-advised jurors which returned questionable verdicts because of their lack of experience.

Another reason for "disrepute" among juries is the failure of the average layman to understand the true meaning of "overruled" and "sustained" when used by the judge with reference to attorney requests.

A fourth reason for poor juries is the manner in which some judges give the juries their instructions. By necessity, a judge must couch his charge to the jury in legal terms—and the charge often is over the heads of the jurors. Judge Radcliff said of Pickaway County:

"This court attempts to simplify as best it can and yet stay within the law."

He explained that the phrase "beyond a reasonable doubt," as defined by state statute, is confusing even to some students of law.

Unscrupulous lawyers contribute to disrepute of the jury system, Judge Radcliff declared. He said there are cases on record wherein lawyers assail the police during testimony or press political advantage. There is the case of one attorney who put a white-haired lady on the stand who posed as the defendant's mother, but who actually was a night club waitress.

Other attorneys have been known to attempt to try cases close to the Christmas season in order to win favor and sympathy.

THE REQUIREMENT of an unanimous verdict in criminal cases can result in miscarriage of justice, the judge said. He said that mixed nationalities in juries can bring acquittal on basis of feeling.

Judge Radcliff said that there is on record in Pickaway County the case of a jury, some of whose members were interested in a certain sports event, which stood tied to two for conviction in a case. But, since some of the members were interested in seeing the sports event, they turned the vote for a quick acquittal.

The local jurist made the following suggestions:

1. Abolish the unanimous verdict in criminal cases as now is the practice in civil suits, but retain unanimous vote on the death penalty.

2. Permit the court to strip trials of side issues and de-

Divorce Petition Filed By Wife

A divorce petition has been filed in Pickaway County common pleas court by Barbara Ann Stonerock against Harold E. Stonerock.

The petition charges the husband with gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. They were married Nov. 14, 1948, in Greenup, Ky., have one child.

The wife asks for the divorce, custody of the child, alimony, household furniture and cooking utensils and restraining order to keep the husband from interfering with her during the pendency of the suit.

The restraining order was granted by Judge William D. Radcliff.

mand that attorneys accept the best jurors.

3. Reduce the number of excuses from jury duty. Or better still, instill within the citizen the attitude that he will not present an excuse in the first place.

4. Raise jury fees and permit employes to serve on juries without loss of pay.

5. Create a school for jurors to give detailed instructions on duties and procedure.

Fat Is Not a Nice Word When Applied to the Body

Don't say it's your thyroid while reaching for the box of chocolates. Possibly one bulky person in 100 has some glandular disturbance and that is truly a case for a physician. Never take any treatment for a gland condition without your doctor's advice. But for the other 99 per cent who are trying to fight the "Battle of the Bulges" common sense is the watchword. It is not necessary to overeat and it is not necessary to go hungry, either. Furthermore, it just doesn't make sense to go on a strenuous diet—take off weight and then quickly put it back on again when the diet period is over. For it is obvious that one cannot continue a starvation diet over a protracted period. Within the last year or so, several diet and vitamin "plans" have appeared on the market, which means cut down on the food intake and fortify with vitamins for hunger distress. But as mentioned above, you can't keep this up very long and when you quit—back comes the fat.

An exhaustive survey recently made among Ohio druggists showed one outstanding reducing aid is not based on the diet and vitamin "plan." It allows you to eat plenty. You eat all you want but you eat LESS. Sounds like double talk, but it isn't. It definitely stops you from eating more than necessary for the energy you spend. At the same time, it dehydrates and eliminates.

Over a quarter million bottles of this preparation, called Rennel Concentrate have been sold in Ohio in the past 1½ years.

You can get a four-ounce bottle of Rennel from any Ohio druggist. Mix with 12 ounces of canned grapefruit juice and take just two tablespoonsful twice a day.

If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose that ugly fat, the makers agree to refund your money.

OHIO RIVER REGATTA

NEW attention will focus on an interesting old town when the inter-collegiate regatta meets in June at Marietta, Ohio. This will be the first time that this event has been held elsewhere than at Poughkeepsie, New York. Of late years the Poughkeepsie location has become increasingly unsatisfactory. Tides always made trouble, causing difficulty in the definite scheduling of the races. Then during the war the observation train which helped pay some of the regatta's expenses was broken up, and it has not been replaced. At Marietta tides will not be found, and financial problems are not expected, either.

Visitors will see the oldest city in Ohio, founded in 1788 by Gen. Israel Putnam. The Ohio River, with its southwesterly trend, offered an inviting passage through the wilderness forests, so that almost every foot of its course has historic associations. In addition, Marietta offers traces of a still older civilization. In the heart of the city are excellent examples of the mounds long thought to have been the work of a mysterious vanished race, the "Mound Builders." We now know that these early people differed in no important respect from the Indians whom the white man knew, that many Indians built mounds and have done so recently.

Even if sightseers explore no further than the city itself, they will find themselves in a slightly and historic region.

VICTIMS OF DRINK

WHO are the alcoholics? Among the men, travelling salesmen who are married make up the largest group. Dr. Robert E. Fleming, a psychiatrist in the Massachusetts Hygiene Department, said recently. Next come machinists. Married life seems to go with alcoholism. At any rate, 72.7 percent of the men treated and 59 per cent of the women were married, one study of cases showed.

Only a confirmed stay-at-home bachelor would deduce from this that to avert alcoholism a man should stay single and avoid selling on the road. The way to avoid alcoholism is to steer clear of any degree of habit in the consumption of liquor. Who ever heard of an alcoholic who was not first a habitual drinker?

News which will grieve few Americans: The Daily Worker, New York City's Communist newspaper, is $175,000 in debt, and its continued publication is in danger. Party members are asked to send in contributions. Apparently the Commies are no longer able to make their propaganda show a capitalistic profit.

Charcoal flavor on a roast is all right—in reason—but a meat flavor is also welcome.

Election Setback Could Speed Up Labor Unity Britain, Canada Create Anti-Submarine Vessels

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Results of the upcoming congressional elections, some union officials believe, will affect current efforts to bring about labor unity in the country.

They think that a stiff election setback, a depression or some similar occurrence will mean success in unifying labor forces, but they see little chance that CIO President Phil Murray's proposal for a committee to plan merger of American unions into one big federation will succeed right now.

One well-informed labor union official predicted, however, that there may be unity in five years. He explained: "If labor and its candidates take a licking in this year's congressional election or in the presidential contest of 1952, then you may see labor unity."

"That's why I say it may take five years to obtain unity. It is going to take an election defeat or some other serious setback to force labor to unify its ranks."

The AFL has not yet replied to Murray's unity plan, but will do so next month when its executive council meets in Philadelphia. The AFL is expected to side-step Murray's proposal and come up with a counter-proposition.

There is no real pressure for unity at this time, however, and neither proposal is expected to get anywhere.

These Days

Now that it is promised that the "Amerasia" case is to be reopened, there is reason to believe that Senator Tydings will not slough it off. His counsel, Edward P. Morgan, an ex-FBI man, and the Republican counsel, Robert Morris, who had been assistant counsel for the Rapp-Coudert investigation in New York, are reliable men who have reputations of their own to preserve.

Even before Louis Budenz testified, Tydings committee and their counsel were at work on the "Amerasia" case. This is a door that leads to many rooms. Budenz established in his testimony that a communist cell existed in the Institute of Pacific Relations. It will be impossible to investigate "Amerasia" without moving into the Institute of Pacific Relations and numerous other organizations. The testimony of Brigadier-General Elliott Raymond Thorpe did not affect the Budenz testimony. All that Thorpe said was that he believed Latimore. As Thorpe is a new name and hardly known, the question arises whether his testimony has pertinence and validity.

Budenz is a former Communist, formerly editor of their organ, The Daily Worker. He was originally a Roman Catholic and returned to his church after prolonged and important membership in the Communist Party; he is now a professor at Fordham university. From every testable standpoint, Budenz has established his bona fides. At great personal risk, he has testified in a large number of government cases. Without him, many of these cases would have fallen. He has exposed himself to abuse and defamation. He has in no manner protected himself, except against libel—and in that matter, only because he lacks the funds to fight cases.

In this connection, may I point out that the same is true of others, including Senator McCarthy. Yet, when Alfred Kohlberg, who does possess means, challenged those who shout that they will sue for libel, to sue him for saying the same things, nobody sued him. There have been threats, but no suits.

Budenz has earned the gratitude of the American people by the consistency of his sacrifice. This needs to be said of other ex-Communists: Ben Gitlow, Joseph Zack, Hede Massing, Dr. J. B. Matthews (he was a fellow-traveler), Whittaker Chambers and many others who have stood the test of contrition, suffering and sacrifice.

In this connection, may I refer to a wild attack on ex-Communists by the civil libertarian, Arthur Garfield Hays, on the radio show, "Author Meets the Critics." Hays apparently is for civil liberties for everyone except those who are willing to sacrifice themselves for their former sins. Chambers never took advantage of the Statute of Limitations. When he spoke to Marvin McIntyre and Adolf A. Berle Jr. in 1939, he laid himself open to immediate arrest and conviction as a spy. He did not ask for immunity. He made no bargains. No group is more valuable to this country than the ex-Communists who are devoting themselves to their country's good.

The planet Mars will be nearer the earth this year than it has been for ten years, only 44 million miles away. In 1954 it will be still nearer, only 35 million miles distant. It will even then be not quite near enough so that the inhabitants of the two planets can wave to each other as they pass by.

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

"WHAT are you looking for, Jenny?" Natalie stood in the doorway and watched her sister's exasperated search.

"My old brown wool sweater. I can't find it anywhere."

"Won't another one do? That thing was ready for the rag bag, anyhow. Maybe you gave it away."

"No, I didn't. And it wasn't so bad. Ideal for rough work, when you didn't want to think about clothes. Where could I have put it?"

"Why do you need it?" Natalie yawned. The dinner had been good, and the sense of warmth and repletion, coming on top of a day's hard work, had made her sleepy.

"It has begun to snow, and Ruthven won't be around tomorrow morning because it's his day to do inside cleaning for Mrs. Benson. I thought I'd do some shoveling before it got too heavy."

"Oh, leave it," her sister said. "Brent will do it when he comes. No, he won't, either. He's going to town tomorrow on business."

Jenny was glad her face was turned the other way so that Natalie could not see the little spasm of pain which shot across it. Brent had said nothing to her. Brent said so little to her these days. It was Natalie who was his confidante; Natalie with whom he talked and made little jokes. Gary came to the house less and less now, and Nat and Brent went everywhere together. The thing she had dreaded was drawing closer all the time, and she was powerless to stop it, or even to avoid it when it came.

She put on a heavy dark blue sweater, really too warm for snow shoveling, and went out into the half-light of the windless evening. The world was a monotone of greys around her, with subtle variations to indicate the forms beneath the shrouding snow and a few deep shadows to give it a quality of depth. The exercise was just what she needed. When she did things like this, she did not need to think. Her housework was too familiar, gave her mind too much opportunity for unhappy speculation.

A capped and mittened form came out of Faith's house and began to clear the porch steps. "Hello!" Max called. "That you, Brent?"

She straightened. "It's me, Jenny," she called back. They worked in silence after that until they met at the juncture of the two lots.

Try, Stop Me

Two tramps beseeched an Indiana farmer for a hand-out. "Fill that shed with kindling wood," proposed the farmer. "And you'll get the best meal you've et in weeks." The tramps were hungry—and there wasn't another house in sight, so they reluctantly accepted the farmer's offer. Fifteen minutes later he went out to the shed to see how they were progressing. He found one tramp leaning on the axe-handle, watching with deep interest while the other tramp executed a series of amazing ballet steps, flip-flops and somersaults.

"Cricky," said the farmer to the tramp on the side lines, "I didn't know your friend was an acrobat."

"Neither did I," admitted the tramp, "till I cracked him on the shin with this axe."

A lady borrowed one of those highly-spiced historical novels from the Morrisania branch of the New York Public Library, and before returning it, she wrote a brief critical note on the fly-leaf. It read, "In case of fire be sure to throw this in."

People in the United States use an average of two and one-half billion pounds of soap every year.

work and to the building of speedy anti-submarine vessels. For the time being, these vessels undoubtedly will be converted from other forms of naval units, such as destroyers and old-type sub chasers.

However, these are best stopgap measures. A British naval authority recently conceded that "the answer to the 20-knot submarine has not yet been produced..."

At the same time, however, he noted that the United States, Canada and Great Britain are working on the problem and pointed to one aspect of the fast sub that works in behalf of the defenders. That is the fact that although the newest subs can travel 20 knots underwater, this speed can be maintained for only a relatively short time, so that if the anti-sub vessels are able to keep contact, they will then be in a position to make their attack on the sub.

● UNEMPLOYMENT—The nation's unemployment problem has improved considerably, but government economists are keeping their fingers crossed. It looks as if the half-million drop in jobless rolls may be only temporary. Colleges and high schools will turn loose thousands of job hunters in June and unemployment may go up. The Census Bureau estimated unemployment in March at 4,123,000—about 561,000 below the eight-year high reached in February. Economists attributed the drop to the usual spring business pickup which should continue up to June.

After that, it's anybody's guess what happens. Besides the influx of new job-seekers, there is summer slackening of business.

● AIR FORCE'S SELLING JOB—The Air Force has its troubles though. It hopes to sell Congress and the country on more money with Operation Swarmer, conducted this month in the Carolinas.

In the exercise, to be viewed by congressmen and the press, the Air Force will attempt to launch an attack, establish an "airhead" and supply parachute troops through to the finish of the operation entirely from the sky.

The Air Force will fly the troops to the drop, along with supplies and light armament. Then it will drop heavier guns and continuing supplies as the airhead troops attempt to penetrate "enemy" lines and capture a base 40 miles away.

Top flying generals feel that if they can prove that air power can do all these things Congress will be in a better mood to hand out more money for modern airplanes.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

A House sub-committee spent 10 days in Hawaii, but only to investigate the Communist movement or so the members will tell their wives.

The committee heard testimony of 69 witnesses none of whom produced top secrets hidden in a pineapple.

Attorney General McGrath has a splendid suggestion for people who have information about Communists. . . send it to Washington and it will go into those secret files you've been hearing about.

Put information in the hands of amateurs like senators and congressmen and first thing you know people are getting indicted and convicted and sent to prison. Then you have others scrambling to back away from the Red fronts. . . a generally unpleasant situation and unavoidable.

There is no need to go around upsetting everybody when it's so easy to file and forget.

That's what we need in this country—a "National Put It In The Files Month" or "don't be a dupe. . . be a dope".

A retractable dog's leash has been developed which slides in and out of a case according to the whim of the dog—or its master.

WORSE THAN ITCH

Scarborough Blanks

Red Sox, Allows 3 Hits

NEW YORK, April 25—There is little wonder why Joe McCarthy would like to wash Washington's man Rae Scarborough right out of his hair.

The NATS' ace right-hander, who has been worse than the seven year itch to the Boston Red Sox the last few seasons, turned up again last night to rub it in.

He blanked the Bostonians, 3 to 0, and allowed them three hits while doing so.

Both the Red Sox and the Yankees have been warring all sorts of deals in front of Clark Griffith for the 31-year-old hurler. Boston, in particular, figures that the best way to beat Scarborough is to have him join their team.

Last night Scarborough and Al Papai, the ex-Brownie, hooked up in a pitchers' duel for seven and a half innings. In the eighth, Scarborough opened with a walk and moved to second when Gil Coan beat out a punt.

The only other two games on the day's card that escaped the weatherman's wrath were in the National League and both were under the lights.

BROOKLYN'S Don Newcombe won his first game of the year as the Dodgers edged the Boston Braves, 6 to 4.

A wild throw to third base by Boston's 20-year-old catcher Del Crandall let in the two winning runs in the seventh inning.

Jackson Wildcats Score Victory Over Saltcreek

Jackson Wildcats baseball team scored a 5-2 victory Monday over host Saltcreek Warriors hardballers.

The Jackson-Saltcreek duel was the only game played in Monday's first full round of scheduled games in the Pickaway County tournament. The other three tournament games were postponed because of wet grounds.

The Cats opened scoring in the first inning of play in its contest by notching up a single tally, following through in the second frame with two runs to sport a 3-0 advantage.

Saltcreek threatened the Cats in the third frame of the tourney tilt by scoring a single to whittle down the lead to 3-1, although Jackson roared back in the fourth with a brace of runs to clinch the match. Saltcreek marked another run in the fifth stanza of the encounter to end scoring at the 5-2 margin.

Pitcher Hugh Monroe of Jackson was credited with the win, while Donald Crabtree of Saltcreek was charged with the loss.

One of the outstanding features of the soggy Monday game was that neither team was charged with an error.

The Monday win places Jackson in the semi-finals of the county tournament, matched against the winner of the Ashville-Darby contest.

Mayor Miller Says Dad Should Help In Clean Up Week

Cleaning Not All Mom's Job

Tips Are Given For Home Safety

Circleville Mayor Thurman I. Miller Tuesday braved the wrath of his fellow men.

Chairman of the Pickaway County Fire Safety Committee, Hixson reminded all citizens that the first week of May (that's next week) will be Clean Up Week in Circleville.

But, he declared:

"Spring cleaning has traditionally been Mother's department, but there are a lot of jobs that should fall Dad's way during the annual Spring cleanup.

"From the man's point of view, Spring Clean-Up is a good time to get rid of many fire hazards around the house. It's an opportunity for the man of the house to check up on the heating equipment, the chimney, roofing, electric wiring and general repairs. There are some 400,000 fires in American homes every year and most of them can be prevented. Nine out of ten fires are caused by carelessness or neglect."

Here's what Mayor Miller says Mr. Householder can do to help rid his home of fire hazards:

Clear out the combustible rubbish in the basement, closets, attic and garage. Throw out paint and oil soaked rags. If rags are used for further work, keep them in closed metal containers.

CLEAN AND CHECK all heaters for repairs. Have the furnace cleaned. Inspect smoke pipes for cracks or rust spots. Have repairs made. Make all necessary repairs to the house. If you need a new roof job, be sure to get a fire resistant roofing listed by the Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.

This might be the time to install a heavy flush-type door at the head of the cellar stairs. Many fires start in cellars; kept closed the door may prevent the spread of fire long enough to save lives. Look over electric cords to see if any have frayed. If electric appliances need repairs, take them to a qualified electrician. When replacing a fuse, see that you use only those of 15 amperes, no higher for the ordinary household-circuit. See too, that they bear the Underwriters' Laboratories label.

Don't keep any gasoline, benzene or naphtha in the house. If the little woman insists on dry cleaning some things at the house, see that only safe cleaning fluids are used.

If you have portable kerosene heaters, fill them outdoors and store the necessary kerosene outdoors. Keep heaters clean.

Start some good habits during Cleanup Week, like these:

Always put hot ashes into metal containers.

In burning rubbish, always use an incinerator. Never burn large amounts of rubbish at one time.

Make it a household rule that no one is to smoke in bed. One out of every three fires are caused by matches or careless smoking. See that matches are kept out of reach of young children.

Air Academy Here Definitely Out, Brehm Says

Pickaway County now "does not stand a Chinaman's chance" of being selected as a site for the proposed multi-million dollar U. S. Airforce academy.

This statement was made in a letter received Monday by John R. Heiskell, president of Circleville Kiwanis Club, from Dr. Walter E. Brehm, congressman for this district.

Heiskell, writing to the congressman to secure information and not taking a specific stand on the issue himself, was advised by Brehm that "I am not a prophet nor the son of a prophet, and I do not want to stake my reputation on prophecy. However, here goes:

"Pickaway County originally stood as good an opportunity of securing the proposed academy as any other proposed site. I could cite several reasons for making this statement.

"I now feel that it does not have a Chinaman's chance of being selected. . . .

"Most communities are putting up a terrific fight for establishment of this academy within their particular areas. It seems to me that it only stands to reason to assume that no department of government is going to try and force something on a community which is not unanimously in favor, especially when dozens of other communities are united in favor of the project."
